Executive's Guide to Cloud Computing

Tuesday, January 24, 2012 in Dulles, VA

Register Early to Secure Your Space

Everyone is talking about the cloud. Headlines trumpet cost savings, improved agility and better IT business alignment offered through cloud Computing. The potential is real, the time for integration is now, but myriad and conflicting vendor claims encourage 'Cloud Confusion' instead of strategic, comprehensive, financially responsible decision-making.

If you are a CEO or CFO for a non-profit or business who understands the imperative to consider cloud technology but wants to do so in an informed setting, this is the event for you. Cloud expert Ed Becker will demystify the cloud and associated vendor claims, and explain the cloud technology value proposition in straight terms every executive can use and apply. You will understand the relevance of cloud technology, details surrounding its fiscal and technological imperative, and the best (and proven) method to begin cloud integration in your operations.

You will learn how cloud computing:

- Reduces IT costs up to 30% and eliminates CAPEX
- Enables you to pay for only the resources you need on a set monthly fee
- Mobilizes your workforce with anywhere, anytime access to systems and data from any device
- Offers instant scalability, up or down

Complimentary Cloud Assessment

As a Lunch & Learn attendee, you are eligible to sign up for a complimentary cloud assessment of your business. BeckITSystems will schedule a time for our cloud engineers to review your current hardware, licenses, data, applications and network including your security and backup. We will then provide you with the results of the assessment which will show you how your business could benefit from Cloud Computing.
