You can now access and edit your files on and offline, while collaborating across your organization

What This Means For My Business?

File Accessibility and Collaboration

Universal file access; sync across stationary and mobile devices

No more dependency on FTPs, VPNs or file servers. Because files are uploaded to the cloud, there are no large file-sharing issues.

Auto versioning and replication

Users working and saving data can revisit older versions. Replication of data off the computer prevents data loss in case of file corruption and hardware failures.

Reduced complexity

Users can work on files out of a web browser with their favorite editors on their computer, without constantly upload and downloading documentation like SharePoint or Jive.

Team collaboration

Users can share files and folders with each other so they can work on a set of documents as a team. Team members are automatically notified when changes are made.

Top-of-the-Line Encryption Security

448-bit Blowfish encryption on-device and in-transit

Unlike mainstream file sharing tools, we offer the highest level of security for any cloud platform, ensuring that your sensitive documents (contracts, designs, client history, etc.) are safe from hacking and breaches.

Granular user-access and security controls

Policies for individuals within your company, including which employees can share files, can delete files and revisions, access certain files, and what types of files they can upload.

Remote wipes of endpoints and mobile devices

Perform remote wipes of desktops for clients, former and rogue employees. This is complete control that businesses really need. Additionally, when an employee leaves, all files are auto deleted.

Links and expirations

FileSync allows users to track files that are shared; users can create expiration dates, and see how the link was used or shared.
